VOLUME 2, ISSUE 5.

May 2007

Dear WRGN Supporters,

A bumper listing of events, articles about the mystery of megaliths and what it means to human, and a book review from the Netherlands comprise this May newsletter.

The month ahead sees the launch of the De Danaan Network of Ireland, 'Out of this World' a new INTERNET TV show and two new web sites; www.nrgdowsing.co.uk for Shaston Dowsers and www.martinsey.org.uk for the Martinsey Isle Trust.

We welcome the arrival of Lynne McTaggart from the USA and Carol Fraser a spiritual teacher and pupil of Sri Shin Shiva Swayambhu M from India.

Karma and Relationships by Judy Hall is the latest lecture to be digitised and added to the on-line digital audio archive. Dowsing and Aura by Miroslav Provod of the Czech Republic is the latest addition to the article archive.

What it is to be Human

1. You will receive a body.
2. You will learn lessons. You are enrolled in a full-time informal school called life. Each day in this school you will have the opportunity to learn lessons. You may like the lessons or think them irrelevant or stupid.
3. There are no mistakes only lessons. Growth is a process of trial and error, of experimentation. Failed experiments are as much a part of the process as the experiment that ultimately works.
4. A lesson is repeated until it is learned. A lesson will be presented to you in various forms until you have learned it. When you have learned it, you can then go on to the next lesson.
5. Learning lessons does not end. There is no part of life that does not contain its lessons. If you are alive then there are lessons to be learned.
6. There is not better than here. When you there has become you're here, you simply find another there that will again look better than here.
7. Others are merely mirrors of you. Anything you love or hate about another person simply reflects something that you love or hate about yourself.
8. What you make of life is up to you. You have all the tools and resources you need. What you do with them is up to you.
9. Your answers lie inside you. The answer to life's questions lie inside you. All you need is to look, listen and trust.
10. You will forget all this.

Book Review

The Language of Crop Circles - "De Taal van Graancirkels – De kosmische betekenis van graancirkels in Europa en Noord Amerika" By Judith Moore and Johan Keijser.

Crop circles (formations) are a worldwide phenomenon. Who makes the circles, how are they made and why are they here? Each circle has it's specific formula and effects for influencing humans, the plant and animal realms, water, air, cultures and society, and Mother Earth. Formations are also interrelated, each one part of an all-embracing master plan. This book examines the crop circle phenomena and its relationship with the structure and function of the cosmos. For more information, log on to www.taalvangraancirkels.nl/engels/index.htm or email j.m.l.f.keijser@ncrvnet.nl

The Mystery of Megaliths by Hugh Newman

The debate regarding the ancient megaliths of Britain continues and it is astonishing how these simple rocks placed in circular fashion and in chambers, cause such controversy to our modern minds. Defined as a 'large stone' used for any monumental human built or assembled structure, megaliths can be found in Britain and Ireland, India, North Africa, Asia Minor and Europe, where they served as tombs, temples, ritual sites, meeting places and astronomical calendars.

If we take a step back in time, we can start to rethink the mindset of our distant relatives for who survival was major concern. The birth of farming and the transition to agriculture meant that communities were reliant on knowing the weather patterns and cycles of the seasons. The development of megaliths as astronomical calendars suggests that ancient peoples must have understood astronomic principles, with many monuments orientated to coincide with farming festivals and solstice events. Stone circles as predictors for following the seasons accurately enabled agriculture to develop through successive generations.

Within sacred sites there is also evidence that the energies of seeds and grains could be enhanced by manipulating electromagnetic energies in the earth and the crystalline rock. If this was the case, then megaliths could have helped in enhancing food production.

The importance of megaliths to ancient peoples warranted a dedicated workforce of designers, astronomers and labourers who could build such monuments as Avebury, Stonehenge or Newgrange in Ireland. If the average lifespan was little more than 25 years, generations of families would have been involved in the construction of the monuments. Estimates for the construction of Newgrange for example, say that it would have taken about 30 years using a workforce of about 300. Construction at Stonehenge may have lasted for a thousand year period.

The spiritual significance of ancient megaliths was such that the Celts are said to have slept on those that were ancestral gravestones in order to have dreams. The early church felt threatened by their presence and from 452 AD (at the Synod of Arles) the first of a series of resolutions against the worship of trees and stones was passed.

In this modern technology driven age we might not require megaliths as astronomical calendars, but these most permanent of archaeological structures are a reminder that our human destiny is still interwoven with the planetary and cosmic progression of consciousness and that we must re-gain that sense of spiritual and planetary attunement that our ancestors possessed.

The Megalith debate is set to continue at the Megalithomania event. Log on to www.megalithomania.com or email Hughinfo@newhuman.co.uk for more information.
