Happiness Cannot be Sustained Externally

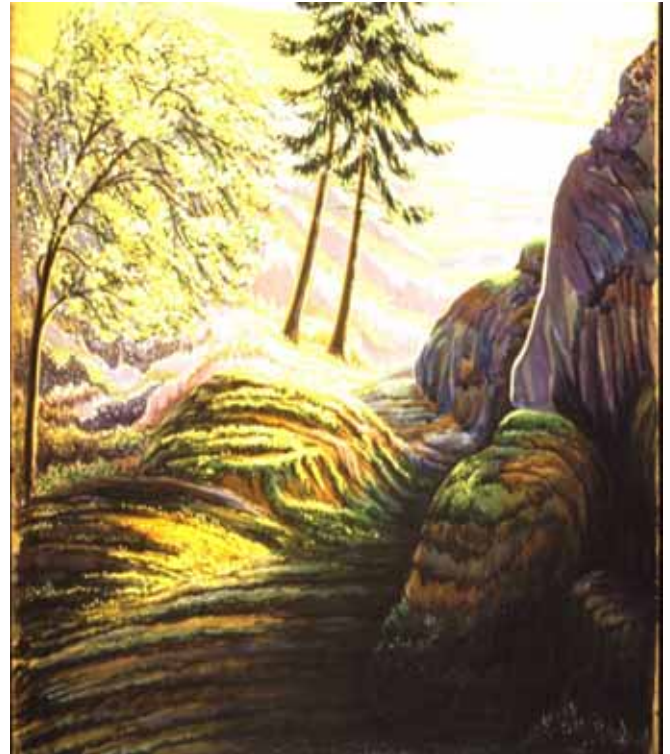

By Yvette Richards

The experience of peace, balance and happiness cannot be sustained by the external world. At some point in our lives, many of us come to a profound crossroads; often triggered by illness, loss, depression or the feeling that something is missing. Even when our lives may appear successful to others, we can still be plagued with feelings of emptiness, fear and loneliness. What used to be fulfilling, no longer satisfies us, we long for something else.

This crucial point in our lives can be the pivotal moment when we stop seeking in the world 'out there' and realise that what we seek and need to address lies within ourselves. Often we have trained in many healing modalities and yet that deep state of peace we aspire to still alludes us.

When the searching in the world 'out there' stops and enquiry begins to focus on the 'world within ourselves' we are well on our way to learning how to live in a non-conflicted state of mind, which leads to a peaceful life. As we change our world within ourselves we watch the external world transform around us.

Collectively and individually we are learning that we are all linked holographically which means that when one part of our consciousness changes, the whole picture shifts for everyone.

In a world where addiction, rage, conflict and war can feel overwhelming and insurmountable we are learning that the change we seek cannot be applied externally where we often feel helpless. The change is needed deep within our own DNA and cell structure, which then shifts the cellular structure of our world. By changing our mind about a situation or event we can change the consequences we see in the world.

This philosophy is the foundation upon which The Satvik Training School, based in Wincanton, Somerset operates. The School offers two courses; the first a seven month Foundation Course (starting in January 2010) which teaches people how to integrate peace, happiness and health into their lives. The advanced course deepens the foundation work, and enables students to become professional Energy Therapists. Both courses use the power of energy dynamics to facilitate the purification process that students undergo on the course. To find out more about how The Satvik Training School enable people to embed some of the above changes within themselves visit: www.satvikenergytherapy.com

"Our perceptions of reality only change when we are forced on an inner path of development that forces us to reconsider what is real, when the paradigm's we develop from birth that define our relationship with the external world are challenged".. Stanley Messenger.

Book Review: Suffolk's Ancient Sites: a Vision of an Arcane Landscape by Jeremy Taylor

This is a well researched book which adds to our perception and understanding of the peoples who inhabited our lands millennia ago. It contains a wealth of antiquarian detail that is also woven around a core of mystical knowledge and goes a long way to presenting some interesting facts and thoughts about the symbolism, geometry and the sacredness of the wonderful country we live in.

Although his work is based on findings in Jeremy's home land of Suffolk he also connects his research with other sacred areas in the world, recognising that our European Bronze age ancestors showed the same remarkable levels of sophistication and civilisation as that of the ancient Egyptians and cultures of the Middle East.

This book will also of interest to anyone looking for the spiritual and historic attachments we have to our Mother Earth and our spiritual connectedness to the past and the places we live. Log on to www.arcanelandscape.com for further information.

Book Review; The High Mountain Road. A spiritual autobiography by Carol Fraser.

Carol Fraser takes us on a remarkable spiritual journey from a "grey English childhood" through her experiences in the Himalayas, then in central Europe as the pupil of a spiritual Master, culminating in her work with Shin, and his special project in the Himalayan regions of Northern India.

This book is not about religious belief but about an authentic search for the foundations of our existence, a discovery of our inmost human essence... the great transformation that will lift us out of our materialistic framework is already upon us. A new golden age is dawning for planet Earth and its inhabitants that we need to understand and accept. For further information about the book log on to www.authorsonline.co.uk
