VOLUME 5, ISSUE 12.

December 2010

December 2010 and we welcome the West Somerset Dowisers to the network. The month also sees the formal launch of the third and final Glastonbury Document called the Temple of Reconciliation by Jon Cousins. A review of it by Nicholas Mann can be found on Page 4 of this newsletter and the full document is available from the Library of Avalon <http://libraryofavalon.org.uk>

The latest addition to the on-line audio lecture archive is Genesis Unveiled: the Lost Wisdom of our Forgotten Ancestors by Ian Lawton. Since giving the talk, Ian has updated his research, the new findings and analysis to be presented in a forthcoming publication called the History of the Soul. For further information about this book log on to www.ianlawton.com

The latest addition to the on-line article archive is Time, Light and Consciousness: Time as a Subjective Experience of Consciousness by Grahame Blackwell. Other articles (and audio lectures) by Grahame can be found at the web site <http://www.transfinitemind.com>

The Violet Ray and the Gold

By Carol Fraser

Many people know that St. Germain is the Master of the Violet Ray, but how many know of his real mission, which in this very special time as we enter the Age of Aquarius, is coming to a great culmination? Yet for this to happen in the best possible way we need to awaken to our true task and evolutionary goal; otherwise the Earth will have to go through a series of cleansing catastrophes before entering into direct alignment with the centre of our galaxy in December 2012.

The Violet Ray is the ray of liberation and transformation. It is also the ray that is nearest to the primal, inextinguishable fire of the Divine Source. In our time, among the Masters of Shambhalla who carry responsibility for the Earth, it is the Violet that is the leading and characteristic energy of our time; the Master of the Violet Ray for this epoch the King of Shambhalla.

The Count of St. Germain was the reincarnated Christian Rosenkruz, and before that the Apostle John. He was the "Beloved Disciple" of Jeshua, whom the Church calls Jesus. He was the disciple who not only received the fullness of the teachings and the love of Jeshua, but who could also, out of himself, give it again. He was commissioned by Jeshua to remain with earthly evolution, incarnating in every century to bring about the full awakening of the inner divinity that is laid into each one of us as a seed-like potential. This has nothing to do with institutionalized Christianity but is the innermost teaching of all sacred traditions.

Many of us today would be ripe for this inner awakening, which would bring us to a new evolutionary status, giving us a fullness of capacities and a cosmic consciousness. We would be able to come together in free communities in a higher group consciousness, in oneness with each other and with the Masters, in order to solve the problems of our Earth and ensure a new good healthy future for us all.

To attain this awakening we don't have to involve ourselves in invoking this or that energy or practicing complicated techniques sold to us by business-minded tricksters, charlatans and hijackers of humanity. The source is to be found in ourselves, in that very seed of light, our true I-AM, implanted by the Divine in early stages of our earthly evolution. Therefore our work is to attain inner integrity, purity, truthfulness, and the unfolding of selfless sun-like love.

In the course of his incarnations the apostle John has sacrificed himself and united himself ever more closely with the Divine, allowing himself to be permeated by this divine fire of love, manifest in our cosmos first and foremost for our physical gaze in the warm golden light of the morning sun. In 1996 the reincarnated St. Germain gave himself utterly into this Divine Fire of Creation and is now spiritually active in oneness, with God in the centre of our galaxy. It is this union with the Divine that I refer to simply as the Gold, and we can in purity of heart tune into this Divine power for our help, protection and spiritual advancement.

I was privileged to be a pupil of the reincarnated St. Germain; that is the Master Gideon Fontalba, who for many years had a spiritual school in Central Europe. Here we learned by means of many purifying, health-bringing exercises to strengthen the presence of this light-seed in us, helping to awaken the god within, in order that we can fulfill our task of becoming free good co-workers and creators, in freedom and at the same time in oneness with the Divine will.

A central practice, helpful to all of us, wherever we are, is to awaken ourselves regularly into the present moment, freeing ourselves from the entanglements of the past and from our preoccupation with the future. In the moment of pure 'presence' we experience the utter tranquility of beingness; then the fullness of love that pervades all of creation can flow into us. To be fully present in the moment is to touch this great love. When we are passing through or even living constantly in this Doorway of the Present, between the Pillars of Past and Future, we ourselves become a doorway to the Divine.

Carol Fraser will be facilitating a Violet Ray and the Gold weekend consisting of meditation, yoga, a workshop and a talk at Elworthy from December 3rd -5th. Further details about the weekend can be obtained by contacting Jill Canney on 01984 656236. For information about Carol's work log on to www.orderofthewildrose.co.uk

Temple of Reconciliation

A Review by Nicholas Mann

In the third and final Glastonbury Document, Temple of Reconciliation (available from the Avalon Library), Jon Cousins argues that Glastonbury was, and is, a uniquely sacred place – so sacred that Christ himself prepared it as a home for his mother – but that its function has been fatefully compromised by a series of historical events.

Jon is a firm believer in the Avalonian mysteries, or at least those of the Abbey, and he represents them eloquently here. By combing the work of many previous authors, he pushes the jigsaw pieces of these mysteries into new and suggestive patterns that have implications for how we live today. For example, he deplores the commercial impulse that prevails at many sacred sites and would have the market place removed from Glastonbury's sacred precincts. But if you are not (or even if you are) a believer in the mysteries you might disagree. If you were a real sceptic, you might even ask: So what if Christ built a church in Glastonbury with his own hands? So what if Mary, Joseph of Arimathea or King Arthur were buried there? What difference is that going to make to the world today?

This is where Jon goes beyond his sources. As much as he venerates these mysteries, he doesn't make Glastonbury's sanctity depend upon them. If Glastonbury was intrinsically sacred, it wouldn't matter if Mary or Jesus ever came, built or were buried here; in any case it is impossible to prove these claims. A powerful place draws to itself the symbols and images of the sacred: the axis mundi, the omphalos, the World Tree, the Divine Mother, Saviour, Divine King, Holy Grail and so on, but ultimately, the sacred is more than all those things. It is our state of being, Jon argues, which creates sanctity. It is we who can if we wish see the entire world and all places within it as holy; indeed, Jon says this is our responsibility.

If we are to avoid drowning in a sea of greed and materialism that he describes in his conclusion, Jon points to more than a coming of an avatar a few thousand years ago, or the burial of a saint, or the repositioning of a wall in Glastonbury. Sanctity or greed lie in our own hearts, and it is the decisions we make there which will decide whether the earth is a mirror of heaven or of hell.

What of Glastonbury's role in the coming world changes? I don't think Jon is entirely convinced it will be inspired by the grisly discovery of someone's bones (from which the monks made a great deal of money) or by putting to an end the 'bad vibes' caused by the last Abbot's death in 1539. In my opinion, one I believe I share with Jon in his 'Temple of Reconciliation,' the change will come by our working together to renew "a balanced spiritual and ecological harmony and union." We don't have much time.

Book Review – The Transformation of Freemasonry by Dr David Harrison

The Transformation of Freemasonry looks at how Freemasonry in England and Wales adapted after the Unlawful Societies Act of 1799, and how the Craft became tinted with the stigma of Revolution, only to transform itself in the Victorian period to become the most enduring and enigmatic of secret societies. Harrison delves into Masonic links with the slave trade, especially in Liverpool and the Trans-Atlantic links with the USA, and discusses the mysterious Liverpool Masonic Rebellion and the Wigan Grand Lodge. Harrison also looks at how Freemasonry transformed itself during the 19th century, and how the Craft began to appeal to Victorian Occultists and writers. For more information about this fascinating new book you can log on to <http://www.arimapublishing.co.uk> or contact David on dodgerecords@yahoo.co.uk

Book Review – The Forbidden Archaeologist by Michael Cremo

This book is a collection of Michael's columns from the Atlantis Rising magazine that have been published over the past ten years. The Forbidden Archaeologist provides an excellent overview of the powerful evidence indicative of remote human antiquity by illustrating all the flaws and limitations of Darwinian evolutionary theory.

Michael suggest that we (humanity) are far more than just flesh and bones; that we are all in a sense extraterrestrials; ennobled spiritual beings, beautiful units of Eternal Pure Consciousness who happen to be covered by the different types of material energies. We have descended into matter from a state of pure consciousness, all part of a path of experience and evolution. For further information about this well researched and informative book log on to <http://www.forbiddenarcheologist.com>
