

Wessex Research Group Network Newsletter

VOLUME 8, ISSUE 10.

October 2013

October and we welcome scientist, researcher and author Dr Masaru Emoto who will be speaking in Bristol and Sika from New Zealand, who will be performing at Gaunt's House in Dorset.

The latest addition to the on-line article archive www.wessexresearchgroup.org/literary\_resources.html is Re-sounding. Singing Up and Releasing the Chakras by Jehanne Mehta (provided courtesy of Caduceus Magazine www.caduceus.info)

The latest addition to the on-line audio lecture archive www.wessexresearchgroup.org/digital.html is Expanding Our Awareness by Sir George Trevelyan.

The Chakras

By Emma Morris

'I've read a lot about chakras but I still wonder if they are real or not...' When someone told me this recently I realized that it had also been my experience when I first learnt about chakras; they were a fascinating concept but lacked any relevance to me in my life. There was something I couldn't quite grasp about them until I learned about their psychological relevance.

A fully thriving chakra manifests as an aspect of our life that is fully thriving. So it follows that an energy centre that is blocked manifests as a block in our lives; an aspect in which we are frustrated, stuck and re-live the same experience again and again. Our chakras are programmed in certain ways by our own individual conditioning. Often there are obsolete programs that need to be deleted so that a new program can be awakened. This happens through shifting the patterning in our energy fields and using our conscious awareness to integrate new patterns through new life choices. The first step in this process is awareness, so the following is an overview of the chakra map.

The base chakra carries our programming about survival issues. A healthy base will manifest as an ability to step into life with trust and confidence. We are able to manage our finances and create a nourishing home environment. We demonstrate commitment in our lives and live in physical health, feeling our connection to nature. We have love and respect for our bodies and reflect that in our attitude to the earth. We are grounded in physical reality and function well in the world.

Emotional intelligence is related to the sacral chakra and here we carry our conditioning around pleasure and sexuality. An open sacral centre reflects a healthy connection to our emotional body. We honour our own unique sexuality and are open to give and receive pleasure. We are balanced in receiving pleasure through all the sense doors. A common distortion here is that one sense becomes predominant, e.g. eating (taste) replaces the need for physical contact (touch).

The solar plexus is about individuation and here there can be a common conflict around separation or merging. A healthy chakra would manifest as autonomous inter-being. We feel part of our community, yet happy with our individuality and aloneness. Distortions here can lead to co-dependency or chronic withdrawal patterns.

The lesson of the heart is to give and receive love. A fully alive heart chakra extends out into the world and uses our hands to express love in our work and relationships. We are able to let go of the past and be for-giving.

Our throat chakra communicates who we are to the world. It is also the gateway between our unconscious (body memory) and our conscious mind (brain). This can be blocked when we are not ready to feel what is stored in the unconscious.

The brow chakra is our capacity to see clearly. Often we see through a veil of conditioning: we transfer our past experience onto the present and are unable to perceive it simply as it is. Healing this chakra is about clearing the old way of seeing so that we experience life as it is here and now. An open brow chakra manifests as insight and self-understanding. We see the patterns in our life experience and use that perception to let go of the past.

A healthy crown chakra knows the divinity of existence, which manifests in all beings without exception. There is surrender and a capacity to be with what is. We sense the bigger picture. A curious wonder and appreciation replaces frustrated questioning. We are one with all that is.

Book Review: The Sacred History How Angels, Mystics and Higher Intelligence Made our World

By Jonathan Black

The Sacred History is the epic story of human interaction with angels and other forms of higher intelligence, from Creation through to the operations of the supernatural in the modern world.

What emerges is an alternative history of great men and women guided by angels or Demons and the connection between modern day mystics and their ancient counterparts. A spellbinding historical narrative brings together Krishna, Moses, Buddha, Elijah, Mary and Jesus, Mohammed, Joan of Arc, Abraham Lincoln the angels who helped the Hungarian Jews persecuted by the Nazis and stories from African, Native American and Celtic traditions.

Woven into this is an amazing array of mystical connections, is included the roots not only of astrology and alternative medicine, but also important literary and artistic movements, aspects of mainstream science and religion and a wide range of cultural references that takes in modern cinema, music and literature. Along the way we meet Gollum, Rose Red and Snow White, David Bowie, Terence Malick and David Foster Wallace.

This is a book of true stories but it is also a book about stories. It shows how they can tell us things about the deep structure of human experience that are sometimes forgotten, revealing mysterious patterns and mystic traces, and helping us to see the operation of the supernatural in our own lives.
