Secret Megaliths

By Miroslav Provod

As a new year begins in an age when mankind has unveiled most principles that govern both micro and macro-space, we still do not know what the real reason was for building tens of thousands of rocking stones, menhirs, mounds and other types of megalithic structures at sites across the Earth.

People from many different disciplines have tried to solve the mystery of why and how our ancestors managed to build these monuments but in truth we don't even understand how they managed to transport the stones that weighed tens, often even hundreds of tons to the construction sites. The heaviest blocks of stones in our history that have been mined, surfaced and transported are Baalbek Trilithons weighing 800 tons. These form part of Jupiter's temple in Baalbek.

Jupiter's temple was built 2000 years ago. Archaeological research has however shown that the underpinning with inbuilt gigantic trilithons is older indeed older than the ruins of Jupiter's temple. Who were those that could manipulate the gigantic stone blocks?

The scientific literature still states that the transport of these unbelievably heavy megaliths was done only by using human force and ropes. This "cheap explanation" satisfies the general scientific community only because even the most respected scientists cannot explain this problem in any more realistic way.

The mining of trilithons could have been done only in a way that there was a square drawn on a flat surface of the rock. Then the rock around its circumference must have been taken away to free the surfaces around its perimeter. After this, 5 of the squares of the block were optically visible and the remaining thing to do was detach the bottom part of the block from the rock below. This piece of work was somehow performed thousands of years ago, however even today's stone industry, would not be able to perform this.

It's also not realistically possible to explain how a block of stone almost thousand tons in weight were transported out of the mine to the surrounding terrain and then how it was transported almost 2km away and then lifted again and finally placed into the base of the terrace walls. It is necessary to realize that 800 tons is the same weight as that of twenty 40-tonne tanks or 800 cars or 10 locomotives. Therefore, if someone keeps saying that the manipulation of 800-ton block of stone was realized only by the use of human force and ropes, they compromise themselves by saying what is unrealistic, in the same way as those that believe such statements.

If any transport company were asked to transport a block weighing more than 800 tons, they would refuse such an order, because they would not be able to deliver it. If a building company were asked to build such a structure using only human force, the company would probably not even respond as the employees would very likely think that they had been communicating with someone who is not totally healthy regarding his mentality. If anyone were to postulate that these cultures were able to influence gravity, dematerialise matter, utilise other forms of energy or that energetic conditions on Earth differed from the present day, they might find themselves in a similar situation (i.e. classed as not being of sound mind by the scientific establishment).

What other secrets might be hidden in a thousand ton block of stone? Why did the ancient constructors not split the block into more pieces of smaller size? It would have been easier to manipulate smaller blocks. And what of the perfect alignment of other megalithic structures where it is not possible to even slide a piece of paper between the stones. There are too many unanswered questions and we can only search for the truth within the unexplained if we keep an open mind.

At <http://www.miroslavprovod.com> I have attempted to amass evidence which will hopefully provide insight to other scientists and seekers of truth attempting to answer unexplained mysteries such as how and why megalithic structures were built.

Thoughts on Supersoul Theory

By George Essence

Hi Robert, further to reading the article Supersoul by Ian Lawton I wondered if you and the readership would be interested in a theory of higher selves which goes like this.

Just as a falling apple explains gravity, so time slowing down when you travel explains relativity. If we were made entirely of light, then a trip to the sun, which we say takes 8 minutes as we sit here would in our light selves take no time at all. If our light self went to Orion's belt and back we would return in 2000 years time. Then still as our light selves we could travel backwards in time by using the memories of mortals who had existed here while we were gone we could then give to people actually living some knowledge of the future while we did this. (continued on Page 4.)

Unity and Oneness Days: A Heart Centred Way Forward

By Hazel Newton

Inspired by 'Humanity's Team' and the Oneness Day celebrations annually hosted on October 24th, I realised I also wanted to contribute, to do my bit, add my voice to the grass roots movement that is steadily growing as people become aware of who and what they truly are and are drawn to connect as one, co-creating a conscious evolution, a new civilisation, a new heart-centred way of being human.

I decided to hold an event on 'Oneness Day', a gathering of like-minded people and co-creators to articulate and galvanise our desires and intentions, to explore an assortment of ideas, thoughts and dreams to inspire a heart-led civilisation and encourage the birth of a new era of peace and harmony.

Approximately 30 people gathered just south of Bath and shared their individual and collective dreams for Humanity, their constructive projects, recounted positive, optimistic, inspiring stories and pledged their availability to various projects, committing to take a range of actions that would raise their own vibration and that of the collective group and beyond. Support was given to exciting projects, love, appreciation and gratitude were the emotions of the day and a soul family was created as we all came together and our intentions magnified.

Consequent from this meeting another group of 45 passionate people from all walks of life; scientists, ex-police, explorers, healers, teachers, corporates, bankers, lawyers, all with extraordinary visions, projects and desires were stimulated to join together just a week later, this time in East Sussex.

Another remarkable soul family reconnected in this second heart-led gathering. Then as a result of this success, two and a half weeks later, the first Unity Conference was born, this time in London and again, despite less than a week's notice, over 40 people joined us from diverse arenas; a vicar, an international teacher, dive master, radio presenter, authors, IT creatives, legal representatives, event organisers and so many more with diverse skills and talents, as we all also shared our desires for a heart-led way of life on Earth.

3 essential sectors of life were explored and action points and commitments were agreed in the following areas; Optimum Health, Provisions for Free food, water and shelter, also for the benefits of living in intentional communities

Perhaps the greatest realisation from these days was that each person attending was connected to many other networks and communities, each driven by a fundamental desire by individuals for change.

As 2014 begins we have a wonderful opportunity to continue this work, each of us acting as a catalyst for a new era, helping to lay a foundation for future generations. The next Unity Conference will be on Saturday January 18th in Passing Clouds in London. For further information log on to www.vibrantsouls.com

There are obvious restraints. One of them is that people only recognise "things" in the context of their time aeroplanes become magic carpets etc. To reincarnate into "time past" from our future position we would have to "borrow" a body from someone in the required zone. Who would make such a sacrifice? Here you get the idea of multiple selves dotted along "actual world time".

I believe the evidence that this actually happens exists in the epic of Gilgamesh and in the pyramids. Light self travel into the future is represented as the harmonic of the sun (2/3) and travel back into past time as omega, these two symbols being superimposed onto the zodiac.

The zodiac is represented as a snake swallowing its own tail, as time incorporates its own past. In addition, as a "4 dimensional time traveller" you would need to exist in 5 dimensions because "you" would have to also experience sequence of events in a higher dimension of time. I have corroborated a lot of this on a small scale in my own dreams and so on.

There also seems to be room for a hypothesis about our reason for existence. Suppose "we" were once a huge multiple intelligence exploring the possibilities of 3 dimensional existence, matter, linear time etc inside a "new" universe. Then as a multiple intelligence it might be like exploring the surface of the ground as if we were water inside a rubber membrane, a balloon.

Rolling over the surface, we would miss the finer texture. It could be that "we" decided to divide ourselves and explore as billions of independent "cells" thereby achieving in short order a massive amount of data errant cells would have to be collected to avoid contamination of the environment, but it seems likely "we" might have "invented life" even if we didn't invent matter itself. It is even more likely that there is no fundamental reality in the sense we are pleased to assume, which was factually invented by Classical Greece according to the Ivory Towers.

Yours, George
