VOLUME 11, ISSUE 7.

July 2016

July offers an abundance of events. Traditionally the warmest month in the northern hemisphere and the coldest in the Southern, the month was once known as Quintillis. It was renamed July by the Roman Senate in honor of the Roman general, Julius Caesar.

Exploring the 5D New Earth – An Invitation By Andrew Smith

There comes a time within the great process of Soul evolution within Humanity when one becomes ready for a giant step to raise one's consciousness into a higher plane. Over the last two years, the Spiritual Master Quan Yin has introduced some of her students to a series of visions related to the fantastic yet real world being created in a parallel reality. Rather than just being positive imaginings, this New World is actually being created step by step as an ongoing construction project.

The 5D New Earth has real life inhabitants who, while certainly being human, are individuals whose lives operate on a very different set of values and beliefs. Fundamentally, the whole of life expression in this New World is based on love and co-operation – in marked contrast to the conflict-ridden competition for dominance and control within the present conditions on 3D Earth.

From a physical perspective, everything at the 5D level is much less dense than the equivalents on our current planet – whether animals, trees, vegetables, plants soil, rocks etc. An important aspect of this low density is that all physical manifestations are much more flexible and can be readily reshaped or otherwise modified by the projection of waves of energy.

This ability is truly a much sought after opportunity of “mind over matter”, since a focused human mind can not only directly shape their physical environment of home, workplaces, meeting places and landscapes, but can also design and reshape their physical bodies. This is not to satisfy an ongoing cosmetic indulgence, but rather to align the body energetically with life purpose. Any body parts showing signs of “wear and tear” (what might be termed “ageing” in our 3D world) can be renovated to their optimum level of functioning by the powerful and creative use of mind in its life-giving mode.

Obviously, there are significant skills and practices to be learned and understood before an individual can take up residence, let alone fully participate, in such a different and varied environment. To facilitate this learning and acclimatization process, the Spiritual Management Team overseeing the development of the 5D New Earth are providing for a series of Training Dimensions.

Above: The Transmutation of the Chakra system operating through Earth as it moves to a 5th level vibration (courtesy of Jay Risdon).

These provide full-time residential schools in an insulated environment, free from the negative influences all too prevalent on the old 3D Earth.

These are schools with the specific purpose of enabling those human individuals wanting to be part of the 5D New Earth to have all the resources they need to take part in this great adventure. The insulation and separation of these Training Dimensions eliminates the constant drag/distraction experienced in the current world, whenever a person decides to take a radically new Spiritual direction towards the Light.

Quan Yin is providing the opportunity through her new channeled book “Exploring the 5D New Earth” for you to participate in exploratory journeys to the 5D New Earth and take in the essence of this New World “under construction”. You will experience what life is like at various different levels of the Training Dimension schools and be able to feel how the learning experience is both accelerated and deepened in these protected arenas, without the traditional 3D negativity. This unique collection of enchanting journeys to the 5D New Earth is filled with magical experience. Confronted with portals, magic carpets, musical streams, Training Dimensions and the magnificent wisdom of Nature, the reader is empowered to discover different realities within this New World. Christopher Strong- Autobiography of a Sceptical Dowser Practising Intuition in Every Aspect of Living

Compiled and Edited by Nigel Twinn

This is the story of one of the UK's most experienced dowsers, who has undertaken a quite remarkable journey - physically, psychically and philosophically - in this life cycle.

Christopher Strong is a consummate raconteur in his own right and this book is written primarily using his own words; describing amusing, alarming and downright astonishing case studies selected from a portfolio of thousands, spanning several decades and numerous countries.

As the title suggest he explains how a professional agronomist, initially sceptical of the dowser's craft, came to be one of it's most respected practitioners.

My part in this exciting project has not only been to get his life's experience into print, but to draw together the themes and threads of his work into an integrated philosophy, which really does come pretty damn close to a coherent explanation of life, the universe and everything - albeit using one man's metaphor of reality. For further information about the book visit the web site of Penwith Press www.penwithpress.org.uk or <https://nigeltwinn.org>

The Sphinx

By Arthur Cotterell

The Sphinx exists in the Egyptian, Persian, Greek, Indian, Sri Lankan, Thai, Burmese and Philippine traditions. In many cultures the Sphinx it is depicted as a guardian of temples and royal tombs. In Southern India Sphinxes are said not only to guard the entrances to temples but also take away the sins of devotees as they enter. In Burma the Sphinx is the guardian of royal babies.

In Egyptian mythology the Sphinx was an image of the sun god. It was the third millennium BC that Chephren had craftsmen shape the great Sphinx of Giza that is 240 feet long and faces the rising sun. Protector of the pyramids and scourge of the enemies of Re, the Sphinx was a popular motif in Egyptian art and architecture.

According to legend, Tuthmosis IV (1425-1412 BC) was promised as a prince by the Sphinx that he would ascend the throne if he cleared away the sand which submerged the paws of the great Sphinx.

In many traditions the Sphinx is associated with the asking of riddles, the most famous of which is associated with Greek mythology. The Sphinx in Greek mythology was a monster with the face and breasts of a woman and the body of a lion and wings. Sent by the Earth goddess Hera as an affliction on the city of Thebes, she guarded the pass on a cliff by the sea and asked all who would pass a riddle. When Oedipus gave the correct answer she hurled herself over the cliff to her death in the sea below. The riddle offered to Oedipus was said to have been this

What is that which in the morning goeth upon four feet; upon two feet in the afternoon; and in the evening upon three?
