

The Mineral Kingdom - A Cosmic Perspective

By Ray Mala

I would like to present to you a cosmic view of the mineral kingdom so you may understand a little of its true nature and purpose, and establish a deeper relationship with it in the years to come. Do you ever recognise the divinity of the mineral kingdom? Are you aware of its purpose indeed its consciousness, or do you perhaps think it is without life force, without energy, inanimate matter to be used by humanity as it wishes.

If we go back to the very beginning of the creation of the planet Earth before human evolution was even considered, we will see that the Earth was born out of a union of the Sun God and the goddess mother Earth. From that act of creation, of fertilisation on a cosmic level, the goddess created the body of the Earth.

Creation on a cosmic level is similar to the idea of creation at a human level. Life is breathed into the molecules of matter through vibrations of energy. The vibrational level varies according to frequency so the form that the matter takes varies also. The divine goddess therefore breathed her energy into the molecules of matter and created the form of the Earth, the rocks the Earth, the sand the precious stones which humanity seeks today. Every aspect of the mineral kingdom was created by her to fulfil her evolutionary cycle.

The goddess created planet Earth to ground her energy and being on the physical plane of a solar body of which she was part. The Earth was to give her energy on the physical plane to the other physical aspects of the solar body. The planet intended as a transmitter of her love and her energy. The energy of her being flows through every aspect of the mineral kingdom and her wisdom and consciousness manifests through the many forms of the mineral kingdom of which you are aware today and some of which humanity has yet to discover, for the higher aspects of her being are still hidden from humanity. There are even today elements in the mineral kingdom that humanity has not discovered and indeed will not until it has achieved that level of consciousness required to handle these elements with the respect and responsibility required.

The mineral kingdom vibrates directly to the energy of the goddess and each part vibrates to a different aspect of the goddesses consciousness. The kingdom is controlled by her servants in the angelic realm. In the days of old that control was exercised on Earth by the Titans, a race of giants who possessed the authority to oversee the passage of life on Earth. The Titans were conscious that they walked on the divine, that everything they touched and came into contact with was an aspect of the goddess manifesting for the evolution of planet earth and for the kingdoms that lived upon her; the vegetable and animal kingdoms.

For many cycles of evolution these two kingdoms lived on the Earth undisturbed. Humanity was placed on the Earth from a source far from this planet and control was gradually released by the goddess and the titans into the hands of humanity. The animal kingdom looked to humanity as the new gods of the Earth as did the vegetable and mineral kingdom. Humanity was given dominion over the three other kingdoms of matter to help it in its evolutionary cycle and become a God. The mineral kingdom whilst possessing the energy and intelligence of the goddess was allowed to be directed by the thought forms of humanity. Humanity could use the mineral kingdom according to its own ideas, thoughts, desires and lusts to fulfil the very nature of its being.

You might think it's strange, but humanity controls the elements of nature in many subtle ways. It may seem that the motions of the Earth such as volcanoes or floods or drought are something that humanity cannot influence, but merely experiences as transformations in the mineral kingdom. The idea that humanity is responsible for these motions is looked on with scepticism but looking back to the days of old, to the ceremonies of ancient civilisations (red Indians, Aztecs, Egyptians) you can see that they understood this relationship between humanity and the mineral kingdom. They knew that cooperation was necessary and that a union was vital since they shared a common evolutionary cycle.

Ancient civilisations sought that cooperation through spiritual worship. When that union is not achieved then there are droughts, floods, earthquakes and increased volcanic activity (the transformation of physical matter) and parts of the Earth become inhabitable to the human race.

Humanity has to understand that control of the mineral kingdom is humanities responsibility. By its own patterns of behaviour humanity influences the mineral kingdom. Humanity must cooperate with that kingdom if it is to continue on its path of evolution on planet Earth. For so long the mineral kingdom has been abused by humanity for its own ends whatever the cost to the mineral kingdom, so that this cooperation has broken down. It is because of this that we now approach a time of planetary transformation when the minerals on the surface of the planet will move and vibrate to a different note.

If humanity does not change to that note, not recognise it, then it will perish. You live on this earth by virtue of the mineral kingdom, it gives you the means of physical expression, it provides you with your physical body it also feeds you. Without its energy you would be dead. The minerals in your body vibrate to the mineral kingdom, they are at one with each other and both purpose and destiny. The food that you take in is full of elements from the mineral kingdom and it is these that give you the energy to fulfil your physical and spiritual expression evolution cycle.

The mineral kingdom is a giver of energy. It's radiates the energy of the goddess over a wide spectrum for the use of humanity on planet Earth. Every single aspect of the kingdom gives her vibrations to fulfil the whole. It is inevitable and natural that humanity should be attracted to certain aspects of that kingdom and in particular to what you call the precious stones. Humanity has established some stones as precious precious today, not because of the spiritual qualities but because of their monetary value. In the days of old, stone was regarded as precious because the priests recognised the energy that flowed through it. A stone was seen as a provider of energy from the goddess for use to humanity as a source of power to be invoked and used. In ancient days stones were used as a means for protection and transportation over the surface of the planet and as a means of attracting animals to one as a receiver of cosmic energy. Stones are in fact channels for energy give and receive energy in the infinite cosmic pattern.

When you are attracted to a stone you are attracted to the energy with which that stone pulsates. The energy of the stone can help you walk the path of your destiny can help you along that path if you cooperate with the mineral kingdom. The stone serves the individual by merging its energy with that of the individual and helping it along common path. In that way the human being is uplifted and so is the mineral kingdom. Evolution takes place together. Some people use stones to help them in the areas of work to be of service, for stones contain energy that can raise the level of human consciousness. Stones can help the individual advance along the path of his or her chosen field or profession.

Stones are an aide to human evolution but they should only be used for spiritual purposes. Recognise also that stones absorb energy they also absorb the thought forms of every being with which they come into contact. You would think that a diamond is more valuable than a piece of granite but a piece of granite may contain more wisdom, more energy and uplift you more than a diamond. But who would pay the price of a diamond for a piece of granite today.

Seek the cosmic value of stones using intuition to find those that can help you and those that come to you. Do not seek the stones of your desires, but seek the stones that you need for your human evolution. Remember that the divine works through people and too you will come the stones that are necessary for your evolutionary path. If you follow the desires of your lowest self and personality then you will attract that level of stones to you and far from helping you they can mislead, perhaps even destroy you. You are aware that some stones have the legends of being jinxed of having negative energies placed upon them. This is true and for those that attract such stones have a troubled path ahead. If you place a curse upon a stone and give it to another human being then that energy is transferred to that being and that being will be affected by the thought form.

Stones were here long before human evolution came into being and they have been impregnated with millions of points of consciousness from and beyond this planet Earth. They will tell you if you will but listen to them the story of evolution, far from that which you expect to be correct today. They have seen many many cycles of evolution. They have witnessed the coming and going off many forms of life. They have witnessed the rise and fall of many human civilisations. As you touch a standing stone, realise that you are tuning in to the Akashic record of the human race. Within the walls of your house now is a record of all who have lived in it. If you have the sensitivity to receive from those stones you can learn about the nature of life within that house since it was built. You can learn of the energy that went into it of everything that has taken place within those walls.

When you touch a piece of granite you are touching the oldest rock on the planet earth. You are touching the most sacred of rocks. You are touching the Akashic record of this Earth for that rock can tell you of the true nature of the goddess. That rock can tell you of the cycles that have taken place and of the cycles to come.

Rocks and stones do have consciousness. They have the consciousness of the goddess they also have the consciousness of every single form that has been in contact with them, all that is stored within them. Therefore a stone which is honoured by someone which is revered and blessed, when given to another will transmit that energy and transmit that love. A stone is a carrier of energy. Be cautious how are you choose your stones, stones that you wear, the stones that you give. It is better to be without a stone than to have an incorrect one for an incorrect stone can truly limit your destiny.

Is it not strange that it is usually the female of the species that desires to wear stones. Outwardly they wear them as ornaments but the desire of a woman to wear stones is because of her direct attraction to the goddess, the co-creator, the mother and the woman of all there is and all that ever will be. Woman creates just as the goddess creates often on a subconscious level with stones, as a giver of energy as a symbol purity of mother Earth. Woman creates at a lower level than the goddess but she fulfils a similar role.

The stones which you wear affect that which you create (your children), so tune into the stones which you have and look for the consciousness of those stones. Seek to contact the beings associated with those stones and listen to them. If you discover there's a stone that's not in accordance with your innermost being then part with it no matter what you believe it's earthly monetary value to be. You may possess the most expensive diamond in the world but if it's not in tune with your being it can destroy you and what value is that.

The attraction of your being draws the mineral kingdom to you just as it does with the vegetable and animal kingdoms. The nature of your soul evolution, your point of consciousness, your vibration draws you to use the stones which you need to walk your evolutionary path. Stones can be and are important in developing self consciousness in developing psychic ability and hidden healing powers. They can be used for physical transportation over the surface of the Earth, for co-creation with the vegetable kingdom to improve the vegetables and the crops which you grow, they can help fertilise the soil and create a garden of Eden. The power of a stone exceeds your comprehension it is a study that humanity has never made.

In the age to come there will grow within humanity an understanding and appreciation of the true nature of the mineral kingdom, of its purpose and of its destiny. Humanity will realise that the kingdom was here for millions of years before humanity came on Earth to follow its own sacred and divine path. Humanity will recognise that it is out of respect for that divinity that it should try and cooperate with it. The mineral kingdom will give its energy freely to you in return but you must use that energy responsibly to co-create and fulfil the true potential of your being to be divine.

I thank you
